

Recognized Student Organization
2025-26 Student Officer Commitment to Community

---

Student Name and Position _____

Each Recognized Student Organization (RSO) is only as strong as its individual members. This agreement exemplifies your commitment to USC's value of accountability by acknowledging the clear expectations set forth by the University of Southern California (USC) and the USC Campus Activities Office. By reading and signing this document, you affirm your commitment as an RSO leader to take responsibility for your actions and decisions, the actions and decisions of your group and its members, and related outcomes and accountability.

**The Student Handbook may change as annual updates are made between each version's publication. The pages provided above are accurate as of the date this form was published. RSO leaders will need to check for updates of the Student Handbook at the start of the fall semester to ensure they are aware of any policies and changes for the upcoming academic year. It is the responsibility of the RSO and its leaders to be familiar with all university expectations related to Recognized Student Organizations.

Additionally, being a USC Trojan means learning and implementing responsible upstander behavior. This continues to be important as we work to create environments of respect.

_____ Initial here when you have reviewed this flier on responsible upstander behavior and how you can help a fellow Trojan.

In an environment where students are learning how their decisions can impact others as well as themselves, there are moments where you will need to call for help or report questionable behavior. All students have the following reporting mechanisms available. As a member of a student organization, you are expected to be familiar with and utilize these resources:

Department of Public Safety (DPS)

Medical or safety emergencies: (213) 740-4321

Non-emergency: (213) 750-6500

LiveSafe Smartphone App

USC Report & Response

Report.usc.edu

Your front door to reporting concerns and getting the support you need. You can report as a Trojan, a guest, or anonymously on this site. You can also report by phone 213-740-2500 or toll free 800-348-7454. This number is staffed by live operators 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

By signing this document, I acknowledge that I have read the above policies and guidelines and understand how to report behavior that is contrary to these policies and guidelines. I understand the resources available to me and I will work with my RSO members, advisor, and Campus Activities staff if I have questions.
